

"HANDS OFF AUSTRIA", THREE POWERS WARN

EASTERN OHIO PEACHES LOST IN FRIGID WAVE

Most of the Crop In District Hit Hard, Says Orchardist

CONDUCTS TEST ON EMBRYO BUDS

Specimens from Even the Hardest of Brands Are Frozen

Predictions that Ohio's 1934 peach crop, especially in the Salem district and other areas hit hard by February's sub-zero wave, will be far below normal as a result of the intense cold were made today by C. L. Toot, veteran Salem orchardist residing at 579 East Third st.

Hardy Brands Succumb
Even the hardest of peaches, the lemon freeze and the white varieties, which are noted for their ability to stand intense cold, have been frozen, Toot related, giving indications of an unusually meager crop in this section this year.

Peaches, Toot explained, begin to bud in September and this budding continues throughout the winter months. Often, he said, it is possible, through tests similar to those conducted this week to predict the pending crop by the last of December or early January.

How Tests Are Made
His method of testing buds, he explained, was to cut off small branches from the peach trees, then to cut into the buds. If the bud is black in the center, it has been frozen, while, if it is green clear through, the bud has not been affected by the cold.

Only a few buds, Toot said, were shown in recent tests to have survived the severe cold of the current month. The big majority were frozen and this, he added, augurs anything but good for the peach crop for 1934.

'Lucky Books' Have Tickets to Movies

There's a free ticket to the Grand or State theater awaiting each youngster who takes out one of the "lucky books" which have been placed on shelves of the children's room at the Salem public library.

Twenty such volumes for youngsters have been placed in various places in the children's room.

The books will be kept there from Feb. 19 to 24, inclusive, and the tickets, awarded by the Walker brothers, will be distributed after the latter date. They'll be good for admissions to either the Grand or State from Feb. 25 to March 3, inclusive.

As Flaming Torch Was Applied In Paris Disorders

Here are graphic scenes of the damage wrought as Paris citizens applied the torch while rioting in protest against the French government's economic policies, bringing the downfall of the administration of Premier Edouard Daladier and the appointment of former President Gaston Doumergue to the premiership. A flaming bus which had been set fire on a Paris street by the rioters is shown, top. Below, firemen battling the flames in the Ministry of Marines.

GRANGE REVIEWS NOTABLE LIVES

Goshen Program Honors Famous People Born In February

When members of Goshen grange met Friday evening at the hall, northwest of Salem, they were entertained with a program built around the careers of famous people born in February.

The roll call for the women was "Quotations from Longfellow about Washington and Lincoln" while the men responded by telling about "Famous Men Born in February and Their Accomplishments."

Here is the program: Song by the grange; readings, Thomas Carr, Jr., Deborah Berry and Edith Saunders; paper, "Famous People Born in February," Mrs. J. L. Holloway; reading, "Theodore Berry," poem, "St. Valentine," Mary Elizabeth Coy; valentine stunt by the grange; "birthstone" contest conducted by Ralph Sangre; poem, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," Mrs. William Fogg; poem, "Washington," Lois Ingram; surprise contest, conducted by Mrs. T. R. Carr.

The juvenile grange program included readings by Deborah Berry; "Description of an Evening Gown," Eugene Rhodes; jokes by Edith Starbuck and Robert Saunders.

The juveniles will give a penny supper and social in connection with a meeting in connection with a meeting on Saturday, Feb. 24, at North Lima grange hall. That evening the fifth grade will be exemplified.

Call Is Sounded For Income Taxes

Collection of income taxes will begin at the post office here Wednesday, Feb. 22, it was announced today. The office will be open until March 6 with representatives in attendance to assist taxpayers in filling in their income blanks for 1933. March 15 is the deadline.

The Letcher's office will be open on one day only, Monday, Feb. 26.

Shot by Patrolmen

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 17.—James Thomas, 33, a Negro, was shot down by two police men last night after he had fled one with a baseball bat and struck at another. He will recover. The officers were Glenn Kemp who was struck, and O. L. Ewing.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 17.—Madeline Groschke, 31, jumped four stories to her death at City hospital, where she was a patient.

Washer and Ironer All That's Left of Coal King's Fortune

(By Associated Press)
UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 17.—A washing machine worth $15 and an electric ironer valued at $35 are all that remain of the $70,000,000 estate of a one time king of coal.

Appraisers reported to the Fayette county court yesterday that these two items represent all the personal property left unencumbered by Joseph V. Thompson, who once ruled a Western Pennsylvania empire of bituminous coal.

"One electric machine, $35; one electric washer, $15," is one appraiser Charles S. Ramsey and Rolla M. Vardell put it in their report.

The appraisal did not include realty holdings claimed by Thompson creditors who permitted the aging coal king to retain a residence in his 52-room mansion long after he had gone bankrupt. He had built the million-dollar show place for "Hummer" Hawes, his Broadway show-girl wife, at the turn of the century.

The appraisers indicated that Thompson died penniless last fall in spite of hints in his will that valuable articles and documents were hidden in secret places about the mansion.

Patriotic Program Is Given by Grange

Salem grange members had a patriotic program for a meeting Friday evening at the hall, Depot rd., which was interspersed with songs appropriate to the occasion. The roll call response was "What is there to farm life beside work?" Mrs. Willis McArthur gave Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Mrs. J. U. Thomas contributed a talk on "What was the Emancipation Proclamation and How has it affected History?"

Compare Lincoln and Washington as to education, character and ability" was the subject of Charles Vincent's talk.

The next meeting will be in two weeks.

NEW CONCORD, O., Feb. 17.—An operation entitled "Our Scroll of Destiny" dealing with the Negro problem, helped William McClain of Wittenberg win the Ohio inter-collegiate oratory contest at Muskingum college last night.

LAUNCH UNION MEETS SUNDAY

Christian, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches Plan Services

Special plans are being made for the union Sunday evening services of the Christian, Methodist and Presbyterian churches, during the Lenten season.

A series of Lenten sermons on "What Christ Means to Mankind" will be one feature of these union Lenten services. Other special features are being planned for the season immediately preceding Easter.

The first of those services will be held at 7:30 p. m. Sunday night in the Methodist church, to which the public is invited. The sermon theme at this time, will be "Jesus, the Bread of Life." Special music will be furnished by the Methodist choir.

List Qualifications For Obtaining Place On Ohio Old Age Pension Roll

Legislature Appropriates $3,000,000 To Last Until Next January; Then More Will Be Needed

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 17.—Here are the qualifications to become an Ohio old age pensioner after July 1, when first pensions may be paid.

Applicant must be at least 65 years old, a citizen of the United States, a resident of Ohio for 15 years, and a resident of the county in which application is made for at least one year.

Must not be an inmate of any penal or correctional institution or a state hospital.

Applicant's income must not exceed $300 a year.

He must not have, directly or indirectly, disposed himself of property in order to qualify for the pension.

If the applicant can meet all these qualifications he then may be granted a pension in any amount up to $25 a month, less any income which he may have, to make a total of income and pension of not more than $300 a year.

If the applicant owns property, except household goods and personal effects, he may be required to transfer it, in trust, to the division of aid for the aged, with the privilege of living in such property. At death, the property is sold, all expenses in connection with it paid, the state reimbursed for the amount of pension paid, and if anything is left, it is distributed to legal heirs.

LISBON STORE OWNER DIES IN HOSPITAL HERE

Howard Robert Croft, 70, County Seat Merchant For 21 Years

WAS NATIVE OF STATE CAPITAL

Funeral Service To Be Held Monday Afternoon in Richwood

Howard Robert Croft, 70, owner and operator of the Croft dry goods store in Lisbon, died at the Salem City hospital at 8:45 p. m. Friday following a lingering illness. Complications caused his death.

Croft, a resident of Lisbon since June, 1913, when he purchased the dry goods store at Lisbon from E. M. Crosser, had been in the hospital for 10 days awaiting an operation.

Born In Columbus

He was born at Columbus on January 13, 1864, a son of George and Anne Forbes Croft, both of whom preceded him in death. For years he operated a general store in Newcomerstown where he resided prior to going to the county seat.

Croft was formerly in partnership at the Lisbon store with Miss Cora Martin who accompanied him there from Newcomerstown. This partnership was later dissolved when Croft purchased Miss Martin's interest and continued the business himself.

He resided on North Market st.

Croft, a member of the Presbyterian church at Richwood, O., is survived by one brother, Blanch, and a sister, Miss Ida M., both of Richwood.

Funeral In Richwood

The body was returned to Lisbon and friends may call at the Eells funeral home there from 7 to 9 tonight.

The funeral service will be held at the home of his brother and sister at Richwood at 2:30 p. m. Monday. Burial will be in Richwood.

Urges Railroads As Liquor Carriers

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 17.—Use of railroads entirely for transporting of supplies of the state liquor stores was urged in a resolution submitted to the house by Rep. Robert Polen (D) of Ross county.

The resolution was deferred until the return of the legislature after a two-week recess, March 6.

Polen's resolution cited that railroads pay a large amount of taxes in various counties of the state, a part of which goes to the support of the schools, and pays excise taxes into the general revenue fund of the state while other transportation companies pay none.

"Therefore," the resolution concluded, "not to use the railways would result in defeating the very purpose for which this general assembly is now in session, namely, to enact laws to raise revenue to finance the school system of this state."

The resolution, if passed, would be directed to the state liquor control commission. It would be in effect a request to use railways and not be mandatory on the commission.

Streamlined "Bullet Train" To Visit City Next Tuesday

Union Pacific's new high-speed streamlined "bullet train", capable of reaching a speed of 110 miles an hour, will pass through Salem about 6:55 a. m. Tuesday. H. C. Wolfe, Pennsylvania railroad passenger agent, announced here today. The train will be enroute from Pittsburgh to Toledo.

The train is now on a tour of eastern cities and prior to its arrival in this city will be on exhibition in Pittsburgh all day Monday. It will pass through Salem at ordinary train speed to enable residents here to get a good glimpse of it.

Equipped with a 600 horsepower, 12-cylinder distillate burning engine, the train is streamlined to a greater degree than has ever before been attempted in railroad train design. Wind resistance is reduced to a minimum.

The train comprises three cars, the first containing the power plant, mail and baggage compartments and the others designed for passengers, one seating 60 persons and the other 56, in comfortable, adjustable armchairs.

In the rear of the third car of the bullet-shaped flyer is a buffet kitchen with space-saving devices to provide a complete light meal service. The sleek exterior of the train looks like a giant airplane fuselage mounted on trucks—a long tubular shape that hugs the rails with but 9 1/2 inches between its body and the steel over which it flashes. The interior is decorated in metallic blue, while the exterior is painted a canary yellow, selected because of its maximum visibility. The flyer is air-conditioned throughout.

The improvement of this highway is a part of the state highway program for this county this year. Plans are to be filed with the department at Columbus as early as possible.

Immediate activity has been ordered by Kirk in preparing surveys and plans, and it is likely the projects will be ready for submission within the next six weeks.

KIRK PREPARES HIGHWAY PLANS

Unity-Columbiana stretch On Year's Improvement Program

LISBON, Feb. 17.—County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has been directed by the state highway department to prepare plans at once for the reconstruction of State Highway 14, or the Cox highway, from Unity west to Columbiana, and from the western corporate limits of Columbiana to the intersection of the Greenford rd., which is about one mile west of Washingtonville.

The improvement of this highway is a part of the state highway program for this county this year. Plans are to be filed with the department at Columbus as early as possible.

Immediate activity has been ordered by Kirk in preparing surveys and plans, and it is likely the projects will be ready for submission within the next six weeks.

RELIEF AGENCY WILL SUSPEND

Leetonia Organization To Disband After Year of Service

LEETONIA, Feb. 17.—The relief agency on Main street will close shortly after an existence of over a year.

Other arrangements are being made to care for the needy families who are still on direct relief. William Rankin, who had charge is now a timekeeper on the CWA. Clyde Shontz has been taking his place.

During its career, the agency cared for over two hundred families. It required several days for the dozen volunteer workers to make up the allotments of food. In the clothing department, the women worked at night many times, wrapping bundles of clothing.

Rumor Mansfield For O.S.U. Coaching

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 17.—In the general speculation over the appointment of Sam Williamson's successor as football coach at Ohio State university the name of Arthur W. Mansfield has been added.

Mansfield is coach of Springfield High school's state champions and although he says he has not been approached on the question, rumors arose after the visit here late yesterday of L. W. St. John, of Ohio State athletic director.

Had To Marry

WILMINGTON, O., Feb. 17.—To escape punishment on a charge of cutting a woman with intent to kill, James Shepherd, 55, had to do two things.

Marry her and leave the state. The bride was Mrs. Rose Hayward, his housekeeper, and he says they will go to Arkansas. Shepherd lives near Clarksburg.

Separate Hearing Motion Overruled

A motion seeking a separate hearing for James LaFatch and Joseph Jambol, Akron youths indicted for highway robbery in the holdup last year of a Salem drug store, was overruled in a decision rendered today by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones at Lisbon.

The motion was presented by counsel for the two defendants after arrangements had been made for joint hearings of the youths.

Both LaFatch and Jambol are now at liberty on bonds of $87,500 each.

ENGLAND, ITALY, FRANCE JOIN IN NOTE TO WORLD

But Manifesto Is Pointed at German Nation Principally

MUSSOLINI BACK OF ANNOUNCEMENT

Preservation of Austrian Independence Prompts Act

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, Feb. 17.—Three great powers of Europe—England, France, and Italy—drafted today, reliable reports said, warning to Germany to keep her hands off Austria.

The joint declaration will be addressed to the world at large, the understanding here is. It is a movement on the part of the three powers intended to preserve Austria's independence.

The manifesto which, though addressed to the world is pointed at Germany, is expected to be released within 48 hours.

Proposed by Mussolini

Premier Mussolini, espousing efforts to keep Nazi control away from Austria, proposed the three-power announcement.

In France, Premier Doumergue has the backing of both houses of parliament in any moves the government may see fit to take along the lines outlined by Mussolini.

It was understood today that the manner in which it should be published was being discussed among state men of Paris, Rome and London.

Chancellor Hitler, in an interview published in the London Daily Mail, expresses belief that Austrian Nazis will gain strength as a result of recent civil strife there.

"As a result of recent events," said Hitler, "the Austrian government of course finds its authority increased."

Denies Violence

"On the other hand, the Austrian Nazis will increase I believe workmen especially will rally to the National Socialist (Nazi) cause."

"Nothing permanent can be achieved by violence," he added. "It was impossible for the Austrian Socialists to gain power by what they tried to do and equally impossible for Chancellor Dollfus to win opponents to his side by the means employed."

"Shell-fire won't convince an adversary; it will only embitter him."

"Thanks, Mr. White", Hopple Messages

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 17.—Appreciation for "your confidence in me," was expressed by E. J. Hopple, chairman of the state utilities commission, in a message to Governor White after the executive refused to dismiss him.

Requests of several city councils for Hopple's removal were met by Governor White with an assertion that "it seems clearly my duty to refuse to remove him on any evidence that has thus far been submitted." A remark by Hopple in a speech at Cleveland had been interpreted as "pro-utility."

"You appoint me to the commission to do my duty and this I shall do in the future as I have in the past," Hopple messaged the governor. "My decisions in matters before the commission will be rendered fairly, impartially and without prejudice and upon the law and the facts in the case."

Abandon Trolleys

MANSFIELD, O., Feb. 17.—F. A. Chamberlin, vice president of the Ohio Public Service company, announced that traction service on the Mansfield-Shelby line will be discontinued March 1. Losses in operation were given as the reason.

In the Mail

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Feb. 17.—All this argument over who will carry the mail and if you tore a sack open here is what you would find: 20 per cent would be chain letters.

"Mail this to ten others. It will bring you good luck." And we spend a half billion a year on education 40 per cent will be asking somebody for an autograph.

As I said before, we spend a half billion on education. Ten per cent will be congressional records (and there is not a house than can't pick up its own kindling); 10 per cent is pamphlets of somebody's scheme of how to solve something; 10 per cent is bills which won't be paid, so they just as well not send 'em; 10 per cent is newspapers being sent to a place where there is a letter paper printed. And that's what a boy risks his life with over the mountains every night.

Yours,
Will Rogers

A TRUCE IS LIKELY

It seems reasonable for the country to expect that the wages of railroad labor will be the subject of a compromise which will fix them for another period at their present level. Announcement that beginning the first of July wages of all classes of railroad union labor would be cut 15 per cent probably was made as the first declaration in the customary procedure of bargaining.

Under the terms of a compromise which ends the last of June, railroad wages are 10 per cent under basic rates. This cut was opposed bitterly by railroad employees, whose case is founded on the contention that the earning power of hundreds of thousands of citizens should be considered ahead of the earning power of railroad securities. Union labor claims that labor costs are not the primary reason for the financial condition of many railroads and that labor, therefore, should not be obliged to make any sacrifices.

However, labor was obliged to make concessions in the form of decreased pay rates. Now it is being asked to make further concessions. The importance of the situation is attested by President Roosevelt's promptness in appealing for an extension of the 10 per cent cut, with no further reductions in pay. Railroad labor, representing a vast part of the country's buying power, is entitled to special consideration by an administration seeking restoration of buying power.

Obviously, everything possible will be done to bring about an amicable settlement of the bargaining in which railroad management and labor are engaged. "The traffic of the railroads is improving," President Roosevelt declares, "but their financial condition is still impaired and their credit has not been restored so far as private capital is concerned. Under present conditions the prosecution of a bitter wage controversy between the railroads and their employees would have a most disturbing influence." The country may be assured that if the administration's influence can do it there will be no change of importance in railroad wages, unless it is an increase.

RECESS IN CONFLICT

It becomes increasingly difficult to focus attention on the legislative machine that functions sporadically in Columbus. Its operations in this special session showed little unified purpose. The prospect of another special session after a brief recess is not reassuring.

The public's greater interest in what is happening in Washington, despite the immediate importance of state legislation, can be explained by the comparative ease of comprehending what congress is doing. There is fortunately absent the atmosphere of frustration which has settled over the state capital.

That atmosphere defies penetration. Citizens who seek to follow the legislature's action find themselves turned back by the confusion of a legislative machine that seems to exhaust itself endlessly, with production of results occurring so infrequently that all appearance of effectiveness is destroyed.

This is not a condition peculiar to Ohio, however. In most states there has been established an impression of confusion by the haphazard operation of state assemblies. Even the best of the state groups suffer by comparison with the national congress, bad as it is sometimes.

If the effectiveness of local and state government is threatened by encroachment of the federal government it is because people have learned to think of the latter as more responsive to their wishes and more important to their interests. There was a time when the focal point of legislative interest in every state was the state capital. In late years the focal point of interest for all states has become Washington. State government is not being crowded out by expanding powers of the national government. Rather, it has encouraged that expansion by its own apathy and ineffectuality.

THE STARS SAY

For Sunday, February 18.

Sunday's horoscope is a rather intriguing one, with much of the strange, curious, unique or novel manifesting in the many departments of human adventure and experience.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year which may not be summed up as dull or monotonous. There is sign of radical change, with the propositions, aims and goals in the direction of novelty, strange experiment or altogether unorthodox explorations.

A child born on this day should be aggressive, enterprising, constructive and original, ambitious and may attain the limelight.

Notable nativity: Adolph Menjou, screen actor.

For Monday, February 19

Monday's astrological forecast is for a lively and eventful day, with much of a surprising, possibly bewildering and intriguing nature to lend zest to the activities. The dominant prospects concern affairs with secret orders, rings, mergers or in channels requiring secrecy, diplomacy or strategem rather than open methods of manipulation.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in the midst of a year calling for strategy, diplomacy or conspiracy, with proposals and contacts with close corporations.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—Purely personal piffle: Calvary is among the most beautiful words in the language. Despite all I can do, Bob Davis will call me "Hed." No midnight repast beats caviar on cold chicken dumplings. Everybody's else evening tie looks better than mine.

Bostonians have the greatest pride of all Americans in their city. Nobody gathers glamour like Edna Millay. Or looks more wistful than Kendall Lee Glenzer. The tune affecting me most is "Song of India." Percy Crosby has done his best work since going on the water wagon five years ago.

Nothing provides more innocent fun than searching through a huge bon voyage basket. Lafcadio Hearn fascinates me as much as any figure in American literature. Gene Fowler and I traded letters for years but never met. Sudden thought: Every woman looks regal in a high fur collar.

Two men I'd like to get together to reminisce are Harry Leon Wilson and Booth Tarkington. The only time I ever locked my cabin door on a liner was when Harry K. Thaw was aboard. Yet he was well behaved. I can't keep from giggling at Professor Piccard in the news reels.

Flagstaff, Ariz., from a train window is a movie version of a frontier town. Nothing inspires a reverential awe like rounding the Horseshoe Curve at sunset. A favorite New York mayor—John Purroy Mitchel. Never knew anyone to be bored with Walter C. Kelley's Virginia Judge monologue. Or Chic Sale's version of the small town wise-cracker. He coined "wise cracker" by the way.

Each January I read the Old Farmer's Almanac from kiver to kiver. Everybody enjoys studying French after 40, when it doesn't do much good. An unworthy twinge perhaps. But Thomas Edison did as much for humanity as Colonel Lindbergh, yet was unfailingly courteous to newspaper and cameramen. The hardest column is one like this. Nothing is so stately as a swan. Unless it is Kathleen Norris walking down a theatre aisle. Watching a dog roll makes me itchy and when I write aimlessly on a pad it is "Sandusky."

A poor soul with a clouded mind has addressed meaningless letters to me for more than 10 years. Every man surrenders to exaggeration when discussing less affluent days. I have never passed Cooper Union without being accosted by a beggar. Over the years in hit and miss fashion, Vincent Youmans has turned out the peachiest popular tunes. The liveliest wire among the resort city mayors is Harry Bachrach, of Atlantic City. There is no writer of any period to compare to Shakespeare.

Direct and alternating currents are Greek to me and I once studied penmanship under Thaddeus Q. Hickelbangle. Which is one for the Dickensians. Prediction: Roxy will spring a surprise package in show-dorm by Spring. When people ask my wife how in the world she came to marry me, she murmurs: "It was moonlight in Venice and I was young." And do I look silly? Life's greatest shock: Watching a roommate who thought I was sleep extract a bill from my trousers. The most romantic hotel lobby—the old St. Charles in New Orleans. I like the aroma of stables. The best acted and most sensational dramatic role of the season is Henry Hull in "Tobacco Road." Will someone tell Clifton Webb how to pronounce decadent in that "smart" revue?

The only time flowers ever thrilled me was landing in a field of poppies, flying from London to Calais. Too much kidding by smart alec playwrights of their better—than that snide travesty of Sinclair Lewis, for instance. One of New York's handsomest men is Walter Chalaire, ex-newspaperman who became a lawyer. About the first reporter to interview the Wrights in Dayton about flying experiments, I reported back "no story." The best stage dance director I ever saw was the stone-deaf Julian Mitchell.

My only literary ambition: To write a true autobiography revealing without reservations every secret of a human soul. It's on the way. The Casino is the only restaurant to go second rate and then come back I know about.

Deep wisdom from a philosophic friend: "Oblivion is far easier to understand than infinity. That's why, so many believe death is extinction." I'd jail cowards who ride jumping horses to fatal spills. I like to take a mouthful of water and hail the new Mayor with a gargled: "La-g-g-gwar-r-r-dia!"

Trachoma, Contagious Affliction

A recent health report states that "trachoma," a chronic inflammation of the eyelids has of late been found among prize fighters and wrestlers. To control the spread of this highly contagious disease, it is now required that all athletes be examined before they engage in any bout.

To find trachoma among athletes is unusual. It is generally found where hygiene, sanitation, fresh air, sunlight and personal cleanliness are neglected. It is difficult to believe that any athlete in training would neglect these fundamental principles of health.

The disease is easily transmitted from one to another, and for this reason the present regulations for its control are to be applauded. There are few other diseases that spread as rapidly as trachoma. Because of this danger, immigrant officials are always on the alert to detect it. Any immigrant who shows signs of this infection is not permitted to enter the country.

Symptoms of Trachoma

Unfortunately, trachoma is often confused with a less important inflammation of the eye. In fact, the disease is often spoken of as "granulated eyelids." Though in its early stage it resembles that ailment, it is of a more serious nature.

The sufferer from trachoma first complains of a mild itching and burning of the eyes. As time goes on, the eyes water and the eyelids become red. The victim complains of severe pain when he is exposed to sunshine, bright lights or wind.

Immediate medical attention is necessary if the eyesight is to be saved. When neglected, the eyesight grows poorer and weaker. The victim is conscious of a cloudiness that results from damage to the eyeball.

Scars form along the inside of the eyelids. This causes the lids to be drawn inward and then the eyelashes painfully scratch the eyeball.

Never neglect any inflammation of the eyes, regardless of how simple or harmless it may appear to you. Avoid all patent medicines and remedies that are claimed to "cure" diseases of the eye. The eye is a delicate structure and requires the utmost skill in its care and treatment. It is always safer to consult a physician before using any home remedies.

Isolation of Patient

Bear in mind that if the affliction is really trachoma, not only does the victim require medical attention, but energetic measures must be taken to protect other members of the family and the community from this disease. Since the ailment is highly contagious, and the material of the infection may be carried on the fingers, handkerchiefs or towels, or by direct contact with discharges from the infected eye, careful isolation is imperative. Bed clothing and linens that have been used by the afflicted persons must be kept separate and carefully sterilized.

Of course, children who are afflicted with trachoma should not be allowed to attend school. Until they have been completely cured of the infection they are a menace to others.

3-Second Limit On Irish Screen Kiss

(By Associated Press)

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 17.—Three seconds is the limit on screen kisses in Ireland.

That's as long as James Montgomery, grey-haired censor will let the actors hold 'em.

When occlusion gets beyond that limit, his scissors begin to snip. Montgomery told about his job today as he looked back ten years in office—a tenure in which he examined enough film to reach from Dublin to Hollywood and back.

He's tough on scenes other than kissing too. Bathroom and bedroom sketches, for example, are out.

MONTREAL—John McCabe, of Montreal, has just "got even" with his cousin, Joe, of Miami, Fla., for sending him a dead alligator as a Christmas present. He sent Joe a Quebec skunk as a return gift.

Is it a fire? Or a fight? Whatever it is, good old Andy Gump is flying to the rescue to take the situation in hand—and master it! Don't miss any of the excitement in this swift moving hilarious comic strip—

PRESENT SHOW AT WATERFORD

Columbiana Cast Scores In Comedy Production

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 17.—A cast of Columbiana actors again successfully presented the comedy, "Here Comes Charlie" Friday evening in the New Waterford school auditorium before a large audience.

Miss Martha Krauss, Columbiana school music supervisor, directed the production, which was given so successfully several weeks ago in Columbiana. Cast members were Miss Eleanor Fisher, Willis Orr, Mrs. Edwin Johnson, Mrs. R. A. Watkins, Edgar Mather, Clyde Douglas, Miss Dorothy McGale, John Ryan, Jr., Carl Werner and Miss Ruth Henry.

The production was sponsored by the Tri-City Luther League, whose quartet sang several numbers. Miss Norma Sheets, local musician, played piano numbers and the Columbiana Lutheran Sunday School orchestra, directed by Charles Es-senwein, also furnished special music.

Members of the class of the Methodist Sunday school taught by Mrs. D. S. Lamb met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Edgar Miller, South Elm st., with Mrs. James Magill as associate hostess. Sixteen members and one guest.

SYNOPSIS

Lovely Stanley Paige could have married any eligible man in her set—there was, for instance, the young lawyer, Perry Deverest, loyal and reliable; but she fell in love with dashing, irresponsible Drew Armistage. Drew told Dennis St. John, his former sweetheart, that he would have loved Stanley under any circumstances, he would never have become engaged to her had she been poor. Then comes the crash and Stanley's fortune is wiped out. She does not care as long as she has Drew's love, but... he says it would be madness to marry on his income. So with a dramatic—

"Stanley, I shall never forget this but you—never forgeting loved you!" he passes out of her life. Though broken-hearted, Stanley accepts the blow stoically. She refuses to accept charity from her friends, leaves her luxurious apartment and rents a cheap furnished room, where she meets Valerie Blair, a salesgirl. Valerie is very kind to Stanley. Warning against poverty, Valerie urges Stanley to return to her wealthy friends, but she refuses. Maria Wingate and the rest of Stanley's friends are at a loss to understand her disappearance and think she would have acted more wisely had she married Perry. After a week of loneliness and heartache, Stanley phones Perry's friend, Nigel Stern, and makes an appointment with him.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Now that she was actually in his studio she was filled with a disturbing nervousness.

A nervousness which Nigel himself quite obviously did not share. He rang for tea and sat down directly opposite her in a high-backed antique chair. Smiled at her reassuringly.

"Why did you do it?" he asked her quietly. "Why did you choose to run away and live by yourself? Surely there were alternatives."

Stanley considered this gravely. "Yes, of course. But I wanted to be alone. I had to think things out a bit."

"And you have?"

She shrugged. "I don't seem to get anywhere. The most important thing seems to be to find a job. I'm going to need one rather badly."

"Am I to understand you have absolutely no income?"

Stanley nodded. "None at all. You see it is really serious."

"Yes, I see that it is." He passed her cigarettes in a carved ivory box. "Unless you decide to marry Perry Deverest—and settle things that way."

Stanley met his eyes directly. "I have considered that alternative and decided against it definitely."

"I see. I suppose you are still in love with Drew?"

"Do we have to discuss—him?"

"Certainly not, if you prefer not to do so."

"It happened to be my first love-affair. I haven't learned to be exactly casual about them—yet."

"I doubt if you ever are. You're not the sort of person who loves lightly." He smiled at her quietly. "Shall we have tea?"

A small Japanese had come in silently with the tea tray. Ice clinked in tall, thin glasses; there was the spicy odor of mint and lemon, tiny cakes filled with caraway seeds and almonds.

"Perhaps you prefer a cocktail? I should be delighted—for myself, no liquor before six o'clock." He looked at her interrogatively.

"No, I'd much prefer this." The food was delicious after a week of drug store salads.

"So you have come to me for advice," Nigel sipped his tea slowly, picked up the conversation again. "I am honored—but a little disturbed. There are several things a girl with beauty—I believe we agree that you have that—can do, if she chooses not to marry. There's the stage. Always alluring. The studios—a girl needs very little training to pose. The exclusive shops—mannequins are well paid and the work is pleasant."

He passed Stanley thin sandwiches on a jade-green plate. "Personally I do not believe that you are adapted to any of these—er—vocations. Beauty, yes—more than enough. But temperament, no. If you will remember, Stanley, I may call you Stanley, mayn't I? If you will remember, I told you once that it was a pity you had been born rich. There is a difference. If you had come to me ten, even five years ago, it would have been another thing. You have come too late. You have too much personal pride, too much spiritual egotism, too fine a sensibility ever to make a success of exploiting your beauty. You might do it but you would hate it, and in hating it you would be self-conscious. Beauty to be successful must be utterly natural. You see? As for the stage—five years ago, perhaps—now, I should say no."

Stanley set her glass down carefully. "I see. It was stupid of me to bother you. It seemed so much more simple. I'm sorry."

"But you have not bothered me and if you will allow me I think I can help you. I would advise, in fact, urge you to marry. Perry Deverest has money, background, is physically attractive and he loves you. Why not send him a letter to where he is trying to forget you in Canada and tell him it is quite unnecessary?"

"Perhaps you are right—you probably are. But I couldn't marry Perry." Stanley's eyes met Nigel's directly, she spoke quietly. "I don't love him."

Nigel smiled quickly, finished his cigarette, leaned his head back against the amber velvet of his chair. When he spoke his voice was even more gently impersonal than usual. "Love and marriage—why do people persist in confusing them? One is an illusion, the other a fact. One is an interlude, the other a continuance. One is a state of mind, the other a state of society. And still people persist in confusing them—love and marriage." He laughed, flung out his hands.

"For me, I do without marriage. I do not need it. For you, I advise it. Marry Perry Deverest. You will come to love him if for no other reason than that he is your husband. You will be more happy in an affectionate marriage than in a casual love affair. It is too bad, perhaps, but it is so."

"You must be very clever, you hardly know me."

"You, no. But women, yes. It is, perhaps, my greatest accomplishment." He smiled at her disarmingly. Set down his tall glass. "You look very tired. Very tense. Would you care to have me play for you?"

"I should love it."

"Very well. But on one condition. You must take off your hat and lean your head back against the pillows. Relax. Give yourself up to the music. It is powerful—music. It can make one who is tired rested—it can make one who is sick at heart well again. You shall see."

He crossed swiftly to the piano, let his fingers idle a moment on the keys, found a theme and bent his head. He played with the same light, graceful touch that characterized his slightest movement. But he gave it more of himself. There was no careful restraint here, no cautious withdrawal. When Nigel Stern's fingers touched the ivory keys of a piano they were the fingers of a man who possessed a soul. He very rarely played except when he was alone. He preferred to keep his soul to himself.

The music filled the room softly, drowning out all other lesser sounds, blending into the late afternoon dusk, making of life a lovely thing. A thing not to be feared and run away from but to be clung to, to be embraced, to be treated as a friend and never as a foe.

A great feeling of weariness and uncertainty seemed to leave Stanley. She felt deliciously relaxed and refreshed—like a person who has gone a long way over rough ground and suddenly finds himself at a resting place. He will have to go on again but for the time being he can lay down his load and sink into a sort of precious lethargy.

After a long time the music ceased.

Stanley rose swiftly, went across the room to where Nigel still sat at the piano, his hands motionless on the keys.

"I'm going now," she said quickly, softly, "while things still seem simple and rather beautiful. Thank you so much for the tea and for the music."

He stood up, his eyes meeting hers levelly, reassuringly. "If you do not decide to marry Perry, and I still think that you will, come back to me. I have various connections. It would not be hard to find something for you to do. There is a little art shop over on Madison avenue—perhaps you would like that."

"I am sure that I would. I would work very hard."

He took her hand, considered its slim whiteness thoughtfully. Then he released it gently. "Shall we leave it like that, then. If you do not make other plans you will call me at the end of the week?"

"You're being very kind to me, Nigel."

He shrugged, walked with her to the door. "You are beautiful, Stanley. It would be hard and, incidentally, stupid—not to be."

After Stanley had gone, Nigel lighted a cigarette. His eyes were thoughtful. Certainly she was lovely and undeniably desirable. But after all Nona was just as beautiful and quite as young. Nigel smiled reflectively. He liked his love-affairs to be casual, pleasantly uninvolved.

But Armistage now—an utter fool one would think at first. But certainly level-headed. He heard the water running in the adjoining room for his bath. Moved with pleasant anticipation toward it. He must remember to see about that place in the art shop for Stanley—and in the meantime he was glad he had asked Nona to dine with him that night. Nigel was a strict disciplinarian of his emotions and he had no intention of thinking about Stanley too long nor too intently.

But later that evening when Nona asked him to play for her he found an excellent excuse for not doing so.

Where Italy Masses Troops on Austrian Border

This map shows the points on the Austrian border where Italian troops have been concentrated. Although the official explanation says the transfer of soldiery from Bolzano and Udine to the Austro-Italian frontier is a routine matter, planned months ago, observers believe the move is calculated to balk possible attempt of German Nazis to take advantage of Socialist revolt and carry out a coup to occupy the country.

CUT THIS OUT

Excellent Recipe For Catarrh Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers.

Secure from Lease Drug Co. or your druggist 1 ounce of Parmit (Double strength). Take this home and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmit used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.—Adv.

WESLEYAN CLASS

Members of the Wesleyan class of the Methodist Episcopal church attended a church concert Thursday evening, after which they had a social period at the church.

To Add Variety To Menus

HERE IS another helping of odd recipes and tid-bits to add variety to your menus. If you are a cheese addict—and who isn't—you will enjoy this easily and quickly made cheese pudding. Grate a baking dish and make layers of bread crumbs and grated cheese allowing the same quantity of each, sprinkling each cheese layer with good seasonings. Finish with a layer of crumbs. Beat two eggs in half pint of milk, pour over cheese and crumbs, add some pieces of butter and bake.

Good Apple Dish

Here is another grand baked dish. Apples in batter. Peel and core four apples, place in a greased pie dish and fill the centers with sugar. Make a batter by beating one egg and half a pint of milk and water, adding sufficient flour just to make it a batter, and mixing it carefully so that it will be quite smooth. Add a pinch of salt, add two teaspoons of sugar, beat well and pour over the apples. Sprinkle with grated nutmeg and bake.

Dried Apricot Preserve

A delicious preserve can be made from dried apricots if the following recipe is carefully followed: Wash two pounds dried apricots, put them in a large basin, cover with five pints cold water and let the fruits soak for three days. Then put water and fruit into a preserving pan with seven pounds of preserving sugar, and add the grated rinds and strained juice of four lemons. Bring to boil, skim, then boil for twenty or thirty minutes, or until, when a little is tested on a plate, the jam will set. Pour into pots and cover. If preferred, the rinds of the lemons may be chopped finely instead of being grated. The jam can be used for many types of sweets including delicious walnut pudding. Beat the egg yolks of three eggs until light and frothy, add two ounces of sugar, four ounces of bread crumbs and mix thoroughly.

Fold in the stiffly whipped egg whites and one ounce of chopped walnut meats and divide the mixture into two layer cake tins. Bake in rather slow oven till browned—about half hour. When slightly cool set the two halves together with apricot jam to which some chopped walnut has been added. Spread some more preserve on top of the pudding and garnish with halved walnuts.

"We Preach and Teach Christ Crucified."

Thought For Lent.

It is Ash-Wednesday as we write these lines. The first day of the precious Lenten season has come. Long ago people indicated their humility and repentance by putting on sack-cloth and strewing ashes over their head. It was, of course, an outward sign of demonstrating what was supposed to be going on in the heart. Hence Ash-Wednesday, the beginning of a season of special introspection and consequent humility. We are not so much interested in external show. It is possible for pride to show through the beggar's rags as through the costly attire of the proud. It is the frame of mind and the condition of the heart that count.

Lent brings with it every opportunity for real examination and humility. The Sinless One became sin for us. Our unrighteousness is the cause of the cross and Calvary. Can one behold himself as the cause of a sorrow which touched heaven, earth, and hell and yet boast of his merit? Truly Lent, if we regard it, fills us with a sense of our own unworthiness and shame.

We have, however, a light which gleams through the darkness of our sin. It is the love of God. "God so loved the world that He gave His only Son." Never is love so attractive, so hope instilling as when it spends itself sacrificially for others. "Greater love hath no man." That monumental achievement of love Lent portrays again. Jesus dying for love of us. The Savior dying that we might live. Surely such love has power to draw the troubled soul.

It is in this light that we would observe Lent. Happy is the man who is drawn by the power of this love to repentance and faith.

HOLY TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN

East State st. at Woodland ave. Rev. George D. Keister, pastor.

First Sunday in Lent. Sunday school 9:45. (Matthew 9:1-13), Paul Wims, Supt.

The cry for help is heard in every age. It may come from any section of the world. There may arise occasions when the entire ability of man is of no avail. There is no occasion when the strength and genius of God is unable to cope with the situation. Jesus, by His wonderful miracles did fully demonstrate that difficult tasks and hard places were not going to hinder His ministry. Jesus furnishes help in the great problem of sin. He forgives sin. The disease of the body, Jesus was able to heal. The healing ministry of Jesus is felt in our time and day. To the problem of workers for the Kingdom, Jesus gave the solution of calling disciples to spend their time and energy in proclaiming this eternal truth. Modern times are much in need of Jesus' help.

Morning worship, 11. Sermon: "Are You Converted?"

Conversion is a vital term in the sphere of the Christian religion. Humanity is born in trespass and sin. There must be a turning away from this life which is dominated and ruled by the evil one. That process of turning to the interests and Kingdom of God is called conversion. Jesus insists upon it as a necessity to discipleship. He knew of the frailty of natural human nature. He saw that only as man has allowed this change for good to come into his life, is he fit and able to serve the true and living God.

Conversion may not be a sudden and radical change in one's life and action, for it may be the slow out sure working of the power of the Spirit in one's life. It leaves a mark that is easily distinguished. Converted people bear the marks of real Christianity.

There will be no Luther League convocation meeting on Sunday evening.

CHURCH OF OUR SAVIOUR (Episcopal)

East State St. "The House of Prayer for All People."

The Rev. Dayton B. Wright, B. B. D. rector. 870 E. State St. Tel: 423-E.

We cordially welcome all strangers and visitors to worship with us. This is the Lord's house, therefore it is yours as well as ours.

The first Sunday in Lent. Services: 8 a. m., Holy Communion; 9:30 a. m., Church school; 11 a. m., Holy Communion and sermon, the rector will be the celebrant and preacher; 6 p. m., Kappa Beta Kappa.

The proper for the day is found on pages 125 and 126 of the Book of Common Prayer.

The sermon will be the third in the series on "The Purpose of God." The subject for today is "The Purpose of God for the Individual." There are many glad tidings of great joy for needy and discouraged people. The Christian church has such a message if she will dare to believe it and to deliver it. It is the message that there is a living God who loves and sees infinite value in the life of every individual and that He is working out an eternal purpose for every one of His children.

The mid-week Lenten service and study group will be held on Wednesday evening in the church at 7:30. The discussion will be based on a phrase from the Creed, "believe in the Holy Catholic Church." If a body of Christians are members of the Catholic church, two things are necessary for them to make good their claim. First, they must prove their descent in succession from the Apostles. The second test is whether they have maintained their heritage.

Bishop Rogers has issued a leaflet to be used during Lent. It is planned for daily use for a space of six weeks. It is hoped that at least twenty minutes will be given for:

1. Silent recognition of God's Presence.

2. A reading of the Bible passage for the day thoughtfully and carefully.

3. A period of prayer for ourselves, our families, the Church and the world.

The theme for the first week is God Reigns.

The reading for the week: Monday: Psalm 90; Tuesday: Isaiah 40:1-31; Wednesday: Psalms 24 and 46; Thursday: Acts 17:16-34; Friday: Philippians 2:1-11; Saturday: Revelation 4:1-11.

FIRST FRIENDS East Pershing st., near South Broadway; C. F. Bailey, pastor.

Prayer and testimonial service this evening at 7:30.

Bible school at 9:45; Ralph Walker, Supt.; Walter Regal, director of the orchestra.

Morning worship and sermon at 11; subject: "The Vision of Compassion."

Bible school at the New Middleton church at 2:30 p. m.; Harry Todd, Supt.

Salem Tossers Display Real Power To Trim Alliance, 30-19

Quakers Annex Third Consecutive Triumph In District Circuit

Mullins Stars In Reserve Role For Quakers In Big Ten Victory; Salem Tackles Powerful Scienceville Five Here Tonight

The Friday night jinx which had brought defeat to them in three consecutive engagements on foreign courts was cast aside as Salem High's varsity basketball team flashed a great offensive attack and easily overpowered Alliance, 30-19, in a Northeastern Ohio Big Ten league fray on the foe's home court Friday night.

Coupled with the splendid offensive performance of the lads of Coach Herb Brown was a fine defensive formation which held the Aviators to a minimum of field goals as the Salem squad ran its victories for the season to 11 out of 14 starts.

Face Scienceville Tonight

The Salem team, enthused over its fine performance over the weak Aviator combine, is in for a real battle tonight again as the 1933 Northeastern Ohio champions Scienceville High quintet appears here for a battle tonight. The fray shapes up as a real thriller with the final result a toss-up.

Scienceville High ran its string of victories to 13 with a 26-22 triumph over Youngstown South tossers Friday night. Scienceville now has a record of 13 wins against but one setback.

After their brilliant performance against the Aviators the Salem passers are conceded an excellent chance of annexing a verdict over the vaunted Scienceville quintet, a team that is ranked as one of Ohio's strongest and one which really merits this rating. Coached by Milt Heckman, the Youngstown tossers have flashed through to victory over one foe after another and in their appearance here tonight, are expected to test the abilities of the Quaker quintet as they were never tried before.

The game between the varsity quintets is scheduled at 8:45 and will follow a preliminary fray between reserve teams. The latter duel is slated at 7:30. H. C. Wagner of Warren will officiate both games.

Salem Takes Early Lead

Last night's Salem game was as uneventful as the previous ones. The Quakers held in early periods of play. The Red and Black stepped out in front, 7-5, in the first quarter as Alliance presented a strong defense, similar to that fine, close formation displayed in the game between the two teams in Salem several weeks ago, and the invaders were forced to rely on long range efforts for their scoring.

The Quakers extended their lead to five points, 13-8, as they continued to hold at least a slight edge over the opponents in the second quarter.

Alliance started a rally that threatened Salem's lead in the first two minutes of play in the second quarter as B. Brown and Gray each sunk a field goal to make the score 13-12 but John Pukalski quickly scored two baskets from action for the Quakers and from then on the Brownmen were never headed.

Gray Out On Fouls

Gray, elongated Alliance center was ejected from the game on personal fouls in this period as Salem tallied nine points to the Aviators' five and led, 22-13, going into the fourth period.

Coach Brown made frequent substitutions in the Red and Black lineup in the final chucker but his lads were still able to outscore the hard-fighting but unfortunate foe-men and coasted through to the victory.

Brown started his regular five with Kaercher and Cope at forwards, Sidinger at center and Pukalski and McCloskey at guards. Little Jackie Mullins replaced Cope in the first period and played a fine game, tallying two field goals and a pair of fouls for six points, while Beck, Palmer, Zelle and Scullion were inserted into the fray in the final period.

Bertram Leads Scoring
Bertram, Alliance forward who was sent into the game by Coach Leland Whitacre in the second quarter, led the scoring in the fray with nine points while Pukalski was high point-maker for the Quakers with seven points.

It was the tenth defeat in a row for the Whitacre men who were really expected to give Salem a harder fight than that which resulted last night. Whether the out-siderness of the score was the result of brilliant play by the Brownmen or a continuation of the weak performance of the Aviators

YOUNGSTOWN "5" DEFEATS SALEM

Pennzip Merchants Lose To "Sue" Sponseller and Team, 32-14

Sue Sponseller, nationally famous feminine cage star, and her Youngstown McKenzie Tires easily romped through to a 32-14 verdict over the Salem Pennzip Merchants at the Memorial gym Friday night.

Given a hard fight for two periods by Melba Barnes, Salem center, Miss Sponseller came back strong in late quarters to tally 16 points and lead her team to the triumph. It was the seventeenth straight win for the visitors.

Play of Vera Pligun and Miss Barnes were highlights of the Salem team's performance while Sponseller and Parker were the "big shots" for the invaders.

CANTON BEATEN BY MASSILLON IN DOPE UPSET

Warren Defeats Niles Hi; Steubenville Wins Over Wellsville

MASSILLON, Feb. 17.—Massillon High tossers threw the Stark county basketball race into a turmoil as they defeated their old Canton McKinley High rival, 23-18, in a thrilling dope upset here Friday night.

Taking an early lead, the Tigers battled the Bulldogs to a standstill in the first half but Canton gradually began stepping out in front and appeared headed towards victory as Massillon trailed, 17-13, as the third quarter ended.

Opening up suddenly with a barrage of long shots and fine passes that worked the ball under the foe's basket, Massillon tallied 10 points in the final session while the Bulldogs scored but two.

Louisville High advanced a step nearer the Tri-County league title with a 23-10 victory over Boardman at Boardman Friday night.

Palestine opposes Louisville tonight.

"Jumping Joe" Williams registered 14 points as Barborton easily defeated Wooster, 45-16, at Barborton last night in a N. E. O. Big Ten league game.

An audience of more than 1,000 fans is expected to watch the Salem-Scienceville fray here tonight. Scienceville practically clinched the Youngstown city title by winning over Youngstown South, 26-22, in a thrilling battle last night.

PARIS—P. de Corlieu, architect, former navy subaltern, has perfected a swimming suit equipped with paddles for the hands and "fish-tails" for the feet, which he claims will increase the average swimmer's speed from 50 to 50 per cent. He advances the equipment as valuable to life savers and para-divers.

Austria-Bound

Obligated to curtail his campaign work in the race for Governor of Pennsylvania, George H. Earle, U. S. Minister to Austria, sails from New York for his Vienna post after he had received orders from the President that his presence in the strife-torn country was necessary to the safety of Americans in Austria.

Creamery Cagers Face E. Palestine

The R. L. Smith Creamery five, leading in the race for championship honors in the East Palestine Community league, will oppose the second-place East Palestine Bulldogs at the Adamsen clubhouse, Palestine, Monday night.

The Salem team has won eight consecutive games in the league and is favored to extend its winning streak to nine at the expense of the Palestine squad.

Another Salem team, the Brown's Heating & Supply company, in fourth place in the league, will oppose the Pi Sigma club at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

160-ACRE DAIRY FARM

SUITABLE FOR TWO FAMILIES

This farm is located about four miles from Salem in a good neighborhood. Two good houses, 8 rooms in each. Furnace heat. Extra large bank barn with straw shed. Large silo. All good outside necessary buildings. Abundance of good fruit. First-class sandy loam soil in a high state of cultivation. This really is a two-man farm, and having two separate houses, there should be no reason why they wouldn't agree. However, this farm is priced cheaper than the average one-man farm. It is an estate and must be sold and I have a price on it for a short time at $6,500. If this farm is too large, we can divide it and sell you 80 acres at an agreed price. DEATHS

J. ALBRIGHT

Jefferson Albright, 85, retired Marlboro farmer, died at 8:40 a. m. Friday at his home following an illness of two days. Complication of diseases was given as the cause of death.

Born in Hanover township in Columbiana county, he had resided in Marlboro for 30 years. He died until April 17, he and his wife, Catherine Betz Albright who survives him, would have been married 50 years.

Besides his widow, he is survived by a son, Owen of Salem; a daughter, Mrs. Clara Mack of Marlboro; a sister, Mrs. O. A. Heffner of Alliance and eight grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at Moultrie chapel, in charge of Rev. J. W. McPherson, pastor of the Christian church of Marlboro. Friends may call at the home Monday afternoon and evening. Interment will be made in Moultrie cemetery.

Disguise Foils Mob Violence

Camouflaged in steel hats and military overcoats, presumably to foil possible attentions of a mob, the three negroes convicted of attacking a 7-year-old girl at Jackson, Miss., are shown in chains as they entered Hinds County Jail, where they will await date of execution which is scheduled for March 16.

Wooing Old Sol by the Sad Sea Waves

One wonders why Old Sol doesn't stay out all night in Miami Beach, Fla., with such beauty to gaze upon. Left to right, sunbathing, are: Virginia Larned, Sandusky, O.; Doris Pritchard, Miami Beach; Marjorie Brooker, New York, and Mabel Petit, Boston.

The return of Greta Garbo after a long absence from the screen, appears starting the inevitable comedy duo, Post Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, and other seven vehicles with Wynne Gibson, Ann Harding, Nils Asther and Robert Young in leading roles.

These are the attractions scheduled as features at the State theater during the coming week, while tonight the famed drama of adventures in the Arctic regions, "Eskimo," has its final snowing. "Eskimo" ranked high among talkie productions of the current year, features an all-native cast portraying, in an interesting manner, life in the Arctic.

Garbo Is Queen

"Queen Christine" is the title given to the feature which brings the renowned Miss Garbo, off-retired but to whom the call to Hollywood and many-figure checks has apparently been greater than the ten to "go home," back to the screen. In the cast with her are John Gilbert, Ian Keith, David Torrence, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Owen and Lewis Stone.

The Garbo-Gilbert comeback is scheduled on the screen of the State Sunday and Monday. It is declared by many previewers as one of the best screen accomplishments of both players with Miss Garbo perfectly adding greatly to the distinction she has attained in previous performances—that of being Sweden's most colorful actress.

The story concerns the seventeenth century "Queen Christine," she, crowned as ruler of Sweden, attempted to live and govern her country just as a man would but finally surrendered to romance and love.

Comedy and Music

Ruth Etting and Dorothy Lee, among longbirds of stage and radio, are members of the cast of "Hips, Hips, Hooray!" the comedy attraction in which Wheeler and Woolsey re-co-starred at the State Tuesday and Wednesday. Tied in Todd George Meeker and Spencer Charters are in the supporting cast.

Several currently popular songs are sung by Miss Etting and Meeker, while Woolsey and Wheeler are seen in a new series of humorous titles that cleverly inter-oven into the plot of the picture, combining to form a pleasing comedy.

"Slippers East," a human interest drama with Wynne Gibson, Preston Foster, Mona Barrie and Harvey Stephens in starring roles, will be shown Thursday only. It's all about a big political scandal in a large city; a murder and plenty of mystery are thrown in for good measure.

A double feature at the State Friday and Saturday has Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy in their latest laugh event, "Oliver the Eighth," and Robert Young and Ann Harding in "The Right to Romance," "The Last Roundup"

The Hardy-Laurel comedy is a three-act set, while "The Right to Romance" is a full-length feature, just recently released. Miss Asther, Earl Marjona and other popular players appear in the supporting cast.

While "Eskimo" closes its two-day run at the State today, a new western thriller, "The Last Roundup," taken from a novel by Zane Grey, begins a two-day showing at the Grand. Randolph Scott is the star.

Another chapter in the western serial starring Buck Jones, comedy, screen news and a cartoon are added attractions on the Grand's bill.
